Develop your recording technique

Everything everybody should know about
documentary filmmaking.

- Why?

It is a technique, a classic technique, frequently used, frequently
available in our environment.

- What?

Follow the story; story
is character.

Character is revealed
through conflict; conflict is story.

We want to allow the peoples we are portraying, to experience such moments and ask for an authentic expression of that, through personal stories.

- Is it true there are different styles of documentary filmmaking?

Yes. There are two styles. The ineffective and the effective style.

The core of ANY effective style is allowing authentic things to happen.

- What basic technical skills are required?

In the broadest sense it will be the ability to see stories as they unfold. And the ability to guide all the elements into one direction over the course of the whole process -- from initial ~~seed~~ seed to final mixing and distribution.

Core teaching

What we make needs to be good, better and perfect in order for it to perform.

What GOOD is and PERFECT is for us to discover, develop and use. Our success will fully depend upon it.
